Ophthalmic Literature

VOL. III.

DECEMBER, 1913.

NO. 12.

Edited by EDWARD JACKSON. Assisted by WILLIAM H. CRISP.

MISSING NUMBERS.

Subscribers are requested to look over their files and, if numbers are missing, to apply for these at once. A reasonable number of duplicate copies are kept to make good accidental failures to receive numbers as published, and will be sent to subscribers, if applied for promptly.

INDEXES.

As usual, the concluding number of the volume is largely occupied by the indexes, which are an essential part of the plan to render the literature of ophthalmology directly and conveniently accessible to our readers.

The Index of authors' names indicates where all references to the work of each author are to be found. Those in plain type without brackets refer to original articles. Those in brackets refer to repeated titles; and those in heavy faced type indicate where abstracts of the authors' papers have been published in this journal. The repeated titles indicate where a paper published in some language other than English has later been published in abstract or complete translation in English, or in some language where it will be more accessible than is the original article, as a paper published originally in Russian and an abstract of it appearing in French or German. They also show a second publication of the article in full.

In the index of subjects it is intended to include every subject of any importance referred to in the titles of the papers published during the year. But if the word first thought of is not found in the index, a synonym will probably give the desired references, as instead of "corneal inflammation" look for "keratitis."

BOOK NOTICES.

In this department, which is in this number placed after the Index of Ophthalmology, will be found references to all the more important works reviewed in ophthalmic journals during the past year, with the journal and page where such reviews may be consulted.

Ophthalmic Year Book

VOLUME IX.

This volume has recently been issued. It contains over 500 pages, embracing a digest of the ophthalmic literature of the world, for 1911 and 1912; with a bibliography of all important papers therein mentioned, illustrated with numerous cuts. The bibliography occupies 72 pages, including references to about 2,300 papers and monographs.

The following opinions of the Ophthalmic Year Book have been expressed by leading ophthalmic journals:

"Its completeness, the judicious selection and the perspicuous arrangement of the subjects are admirable. . . . Its price is nothing compared to its value to the student."—American Journal of Ophthalmology, Dec. 1911.

"It has the unqualified endorsement of all ophthalmologists who are properly familiar with it; and deserves immediate introduction to the shelves of all ophthalmologists who are yet to learn its value."—Annals of Ophthalmology, Jan. 1912.

"It would seem that the merits of this Year Book must be sufficiently apparent to every active oculist to lead him to subscribe."—Archives of Ophthalmology, March 1912.

"We have frequently before had to express our admiration of the wonderful completeness of this record of the year's work in ophthalmic science, and to marvel at the energy and work that must have gone to its completion."—Ophthalmic Review, Feb. 1912.

"For comprehensiveness the Ophthalmic Year Book has no equal in our language. It well nigh passes comprehension how any ophthalmic surgeon can afford to be without it."—The Ophthalmoscope, Apr. 1912.

The Ophthalmic Year Book will be sent postpaid on receipt of price, Five Dollars.
